DOODGE COUNTY VETERANS.

They Determine to Take a More Active Part in the Fight.

FREMONT, Oct. 7.—[Special to THE BEE.]—About fifty veterans of the army and navy met at the city hall last night for the purpose of organizing a Union Veteran league. It is estimated that at least 300 will be enrolled in Dodge county before election day. The sentiment as expressed at the meeting was that the time had arrived when the boys who saved the country in 1861-65 should take a hand in its government. The constitution of the Grand Army organization absolutely precludes any political discussion or the object of the new organization is to enter the political field or any attempt to control the salient interests, and at stake. The conviction that it should be made impossible for another administration that would select a Georgia secessionist to control national matters seemed unanimous. Organization will be effected on the 13th inst.

IGNORED BY INDEPENDENTS.

Adams County Democrats Placed in a Very Ridiculous Position.

HASTINGS, Oct. 7.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The Independents of Adams county met in convention here today and figuratively snubbed the democratic party in a most refreshing manner, and completely ignored the action of the latter in convention held here Tuesday, when they nominated three officials and left the rest of the ticket blank. Ex-Representative W. H. Waldron was made chairman, and nothing except the routine business was transacted until the afternoon. Then the court room was packed, a large number of democrats and republicans were present, and the report of the committee on resolutions was presented, and when Bryan was praised for his recent change in party the convention turned itself into a bedlam for a few moments.

Another resolution which was carried with a whoop was as follows, and was supposed to refer to the county treasury scandal of two years ago:

In the nomination of all candidates for public office we demand that they shall possess the following qualifications: First, ability; second, honesty; third, availability, and that if any such candidate shall be elected to office he shall be held to the strictest accountability, and that if he shall not be held to the strictest accountability he shall be held to the strictest accountability, and that if he shall not be held to the strictest accountability he shall be held to the strictest accountability.

WILL RAISE A WALL.

Prospects of a Protest from Property Owners Over a Street Opening.

When work is commenced on the opening of Twenty-fourth street from Cass street north it is said that a wall from property owners will be heard.

It is also said that the observatory of Crichton college will have to be sacrificed to the demand for an open highway. The observatory, which is a very complete one, stands right in the line of the proposed extension, and will have to be torn down. Even if it were not exactly on the line there would be no difference, as no correct observations can be taken within 200 feet of a highway, the jar and vibrations caused by street traffic preventing any degree of accuracy being attained.

Rev. Father Hooper, the president of the institution, in discussing the matter yesterday, spoke feelingly concerning it. "It simply means," he said, "another burden of expense to the college, leaving aside the question of the inconvenience, which will be serious, indeed. All that can be done will be to buy a piece of ground somewhere out in the suburbs, where we will not be disturbed, and rebuild, and that will cost from $50,000 to $60,000."

Remembered with Honor.

Ed Lynch was down in the Third ward in a bewildered state of intoxication yesterday afternoon, and after roaming around for a while, imagined that a man employed at the smelting works had robbed him. Lynch reported the matter at headquarters, but a search revealed no missing money in his pistol pocket. The police then locked up the complainant for being drunk.

YOUNG MEN'S INSTITUTE.

Delegates Return from the Recent Grand Council at Cincinnati.

The Omaha and South Omaha delegates to the annual grand council of the Young Men's Institute, held in Cincinnati the last week of September, have returned and are enthusiastic in their praise of the reception accorded them in the metropolis of the Ohio valley. The delegation consisted of Rev. S. P. Carroll and George J. Kieffer of Council Bluffs, Omaha; Rev. H. J. McDevitt of Council Bluffs, South Omaha; Messrs. James Dugan, M. Coffey and William Russell, alternates.

ported the matter at headquarters, but a search revealed no missing money in his pistol pocket. The police then locked up the complainant for being drunk.

The Cincinnati meeting was the fourth annual session of the grand council. Sixty-five delegates were present, an increase of thirty councils in a year. The total membership of the organization approximates 20,000. Both jurisdictions, the Pacific and the Atlantic, are doing well. The parent organization, contains a large majority of the total membership and extends from Twenty-fifth to the Mexican boundary and from the Rockies to the Pacific. The Atlantic jurisdiction is comparatively young, but is growing rapidly, as the increase in membership of the Pacific jurisdiction, entirely independent, have like objects in view and a movement has been started with a view to uniting them. The initiative was taken at Cincinnati, a committee, of which Rev. Father Carroll of Omaha is a member, having been appointed to confer with a like committee of the Pacific jurisdiction. The joint meeting will be held in San Francisco early next spring.

Several important changes in the constitution were adopted by the grand council. Originally active membership was limited to persons between the ages of 17 and 35. Last year's council raised the limit to 40. This year the council raised it to 50 years, with the minimum age for active membership and 19 and 45 in the insurance division of the organization, being limited to membership of American citizens, with the right to affiliate with similar organizations in Canada.

The officers of the grand council for the ensuing year are as follows: Grand chaplain, Rt. Rev. C. P. Maes; grand president, J. M. Kelly; grand first vice president, W. B. Condit; grand second vice president, J. W. Waters; grand secretary, Edward H. Busch; grand treasurer, Joseph H. Richter; grand marshal, Joseph A. Murphy; grand lecturer, J. A. Kolman; M. D. grand directors, George E. Coll, Rev. S. P. Carroll, Joseph Leamy, W. Hay; grand lecturer, Rev. P. J. Donnelly.

The Young Men's Institute is designed to advance the spiritual and material welfare of members of the Catholic church. Its main features are social and benevolent. "Pro Deo, Pro Patria," the motto of the organization, crystallizes its principles. Though scarcely ten years of age, it has become a powerful influence for good, being together by the strong links of Christian fraternity thousands of young and uneducated in a practical manner, the principles of Christianity and patriotism. The zeal of its founders and their successors has attracted to the shelter of its halls thousands who enjoy in its benefits the influence and fraternal spirit. The social features of the organization is carefully attended to, for by this means young men on pleasure bent are provided a rendezvous for evening where enjoyable recreation may be had. Membership is divided into three classes—members, associates and honorary. All members must be practical Catholics as well as citizens when of age, and must be of good character, temperate and of industrious habits.

One of the chief features is the general growth of the organization has been Chicago. At a meeting of archbishops in Chicago recently they cordially and unanimously approved the extension of the organization and the opposition manifested in various quarters. A letter from Mr. Sattoli, apostolic delegate, was read at the grand council, conveying words of cheer and encouragement to the members. "I rejoice," says the delegate, "at the noble purpose for which you are endeavoring to form this association, the purpose of which is so well epitomized in the few words, 'Pro Deo and Pro Patria.' I beg of you to convey to your society the good wishes which I have for the spread of their organization and for the continuing prosperity, recommending that in all their actions they show that deference for ecclesiastical authority which becomes good Catholics, and even in their amusements fully comply with the rules of their plenary council at Baltimore."

Omaha Institute No. 141 was organized three years ago. Although many obstacles were met they were successfully overcome and the organization is now in a flourishing condition. The headquarters of the block on the southwest corner of Fourteenth and Dodge streets are leased and occupied by the institute. They comprise billiard and card rooms, a library of several hundred volumes, a reading room, gymnasium, an assembly room and a large hall for entertainments. The rooms are well furnished and well lighted and are pervaded with an air of good cheer and fellowship. In these attractive quarters members and friends pass the evening enjoying the various recreations, mental and physical.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA.

German Day Celebrated—Other Events in the Magic City.

The German day festivities in South Omaha did not begin in earnest until about 8 o'clock last night. During the day the city had a gala appearance, but not until evening did the crowds begin to congregate on the principal streets. Twenty-fourth street and N street were alive with humankind anxiously waiting to witness the parade, which began to move shortly after 8 o'clock. The marshals were mounted on spirited steeds and well clapping, about the streets getting the crowd fitted out in colors. In the float, excellently managed throughout, and every one said that it was one of the largest and most imposing parades that was ever given in this city. There were over 1,000 persons in line, the procession being about a mile long. The line of march was from Twenty-fifth and N streets, through Fifty-fifth to M, then circling the principal streets of the city, returning to Bauer's concert hall where the balance of the program was given.

Mayor Walker and the city officials were in carriages. The South Omaha Brewing company had four carriages and one float, all brilliantly fitted out in colors. In the float was Uncle Sam and a delegate from the Fatherland, Jaskielek, the cigar manufacturer. The float was also decorated with many beautiful flags and banners. Mayor Walker delivered the address of welcome and turned the keys of the city over to the Germans in a very neat speech. The German speaker of the evening was Mr. E. J. Freitag of this city. His words were greeted with applause.

Following the address was a concert program, after which the celebration was concluded in the city.

A catfight from western Nebraska had a lively experience with a footpad about midnight Friday. He was coming from the streets, which he had always done, but he was met by a stranger, who demanded him to throw up his hands. He refused to comply with the request, when the thing struck him a blow which almost felled him. He managed to get away before the fellow got hold of his rifle. The case was not reported to the police until last evening, when the officers now have a very good description of the man and are making an effort to run him down.

Extensive Improvements.

The G. H. Hammond parking company will at once begin the erection of a large brick building on its extensive plant to be used as a box factory. The machinery will all be of modern design and the addition will give employment to many hands. The capacity will be 5,000 feet of flooring.

Making Preparations.

Lily division, uniformed Knights of Pythias is requested to meet at his hall in this city on Tuesday at 1 o'clock p. m. in full uniform. The headquarters for the uniformed knights during the session of the grand lodge will be at the Merchants hotel.

LOOKING FOR A CLERK.

Officers on the Trail of a Smooth Young Man from South Omaha.

A clerk named Vasyonovsky has been in the employ of Morris Goldstein, a South Omaha clothier, accused of turning a trick on some of the wholesale dealers of this city. The young man has been trusted to a considerable extent by his employer and has frequently been allowed to purchase orders of goods from the Omaha dealers and have them charged on Mr. Goldstein.

A few days ago Vasyonovsky was discharged. He came to Omaha and called at Rippatrick-Koch's wholesale dry goods store, where he bought quite an order of woollen goods. He had a confederate with him, who soon drove around with an express wagon and carted the goods away. As the clerk had been in the habit of doing this at different times nothing was thought of the occurrence.

On Friday the clerk came back and ordered about $40 worth of fine woollen underwear, silk handkerchiefs, handkerchiefs, and had them charged up as before. One of the clerks in the wholesale business had heard of the case and had been watching the clerk. He told the manager of the wholesale house. One of the clerks was sent out to find Vasyonovsky. He was located in front of a fashionable restaurant and
